

Nick Borg

Nick Borg was born in Malta, educated in the UK from the age of 10, where he studied Accounting and Finance before going on to work for PricewaterhouseCoopers. That was a stepping stone to starting his own business in Fiji before returning to Malta to work in the property market, buying, renovating and renting out.

Marriage and good fortune took him to Japan for 10 years where he worked as a Headhunter in the Semiconductor space before returning to Malta to give his daughter Leila a more international education.

Currently he works both as a Headhunter in the Japan Semiconductor market as well as the local property market. Sport has always been a large part of his life. When he is not scuba diving, he is rock climbing, constantly pushing limits. Yoga and meditation as well as hands on construction work help to keep him on an even keel.

Nick has been in the VIS community since 2019 and started out on the Finance committee getting a sound understanding of the financial position and potential of the school.
